the apocalypse had come and gone and even though there were still plenty of walkers stumbling around montana or what billy called gob good ol boy land the worst thing on two legs was the survivors at least with the dead you knew where you stood as a potential meal billy was a young black man who worked for zombie express the main trucking company that ran supply routes between the remaining towns and strongholds spread across the big sky state he was originally from the harsh environs of la and he now had to show the ropes to ted the erudite old white dude the company had saddled him with he knew nothing about the elderly grandpa other than zombie express had hired him at the last minute to ride shotgun in his truck everyone's story of their z day or week or month was different of course but damn didnt the old dude ever shut up and just minutes into their first run the old man was already napping he was going to get billy killed or worse and billy did not want to end up a dead head the zombie apocalypse had done a horrific number on the world a few years earlier but somehow the state of montana had come through better than most places in what had once been america they had a working electrical grid were able to manufacture diesel fuel and had a passable government protected by a mostly green national guard sure there were still dead heads stumbling about but not anything like what filled the huge urban areas up in gob good ol boy land the survivors had cobbled together a semblance of what most had lost ted a verbose ex gulf war veteran worked for zombie express the main trucking company that was helping stitch together the widespread groups of survivors he left most of the driving to his partner a fortyish black woman who furtively referred to him as the old white dude they had a professional respect for each other of sorts having been of roughly retirement age in the world of before teds attitude with her was a bit dated and she did not appreciate all the sexual innuendos all in all they did their best to survive the aftermath of the apocalypse and each other
