traces the key events that occurred in five main geographical areas on earth from the creation of the solar system to the twentieth century disguised as an Arab Gerhard Rohlfs was the first European to cross Africa from Tripoli across the Sahara Desert from north to south. He travelled via Lake Chad and along the Niger River and to present-day Lagos on the Gulf of Guinea. From 1865 to 1867 he was the second European explorer to visit the region of the Draa River in the south of Morocco. For this work in 1868 he was awarded the Patron's Medal of the Royal Geographical Society of London. Rohlfs's detailed account of his time in Morocco and the Sahara is contained in his 1874 book "Adventures in Morocco and Journeys through the Oases of Draa and Tafilalet". Rohlfs's English book does not list a specific translator. In 1874 in the magazine "Athenaeum" Rohlfs's specifying the translator merely states that at my wish messrs Low caused an English translation to be made. Rohlfs's accounts of his experience in Morocco reads more like an adventure novel than history. Several times he was attacked by robbers and left for dead, and once covered with nine wounds he lay for two days and three nights in the desert. There he found good Samaritans in the inhabitants of a neighboring oasis who kindly cared for him and enabled him to resume his travels. He had scarcely entered on his first journey in this inhospitable country when he was robbed of every thing that he possessed but declining to turn back he had the courage to press on to the first grand sheriff and apply for the position of surgeon in the army. Thus he obtained and was soon promoted to the post of body physician to the governor and thus obtained access to the royal city of Fez, the residence of the emperor. According to Rohlfs, very few of the Berbers understood the Koran, the prayers or the religious precepts which are all in the Arabic tongue. Yet nevertheless they were the most radical Moslems and threatened him several times whom they suspected of being a Christian. Dog Rohlfs's life was always saved by the intervention of the governor's son who was a distant descendant of the Mohamed whose influence was all powerful having made well nigh the circuit of Morocco skirting the Atlantic seaboard from Tangiers southwards besides long intervals of sojourn in the Sahara and penetrating to the oases of Draa and Tafilalet.

Mildred Mortimer questions the preeminence of outer and inner voyages in the francophone African novel rooted in both African oral tradition and the European novel. The journey motif not only reflects cultural blending but also African experiences of migration, exploration, and conquest.
