Parcel of Death recounts the little-told life story of Onkgopotse Abram Tiro, the first South African freedom fighter. The apartheid regime pursued beyond the country's borders to assassinate with a parcel bomb on 29 April 1972. Tiro made one of the most consequential revolutionary addresses in South African history, dubbed the Turfloop Testimony. Tiro's anti-apartheid speech saw him and many of his fellow student activists expelled, igniting a series of strikes in tertiary institutions across the country. By the time he went into exile in Botswana, Tiro was president of the Southern African Student Movement (SASM), permanent organiser of the South African Student Organisation (SASO) and a leading black consciousness proponent, hailed by many as the godfather of the June 1976 uprisings. Parcel of Death uses extensive and exclusive interviews to highlight significant influences and periods in Tiro's life, including the lessons learned from his rural upbringing in Dinokana, Zeerust, the time he spent working on a manganese mine, his role as a teacher and the impact of his faith in shaping his outlook. It is a compelling portrait of Tiro's story and its lasting significance in South Africa's history.

This book provides new ideas on how to work with and constructively transform shame on a theoretical and practical level and in various socio-cultural contexts and professions. It provides practical guidelines on dealing with shame on the basis of reflection, counselling models, exercises, simulations, specific psychotherapeutic approaches and auto-didactical learning material so as to transform shame from a negatively experienced emotion into a mental health resource. The book challenges theorists to adopt an interdisciplinary stance and to think outside the box. Further, it provides practitioners such as coaches, counsellors, therapists, trainers and medical personnel with practical tools for transforming negative experiences and emotions. In brief, the book shows practitioners how to unlock the growth potential of individuals, teams and organisations, allowing them to develop constructively and positively.

With the adoption of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and the Paris Agreement, the purpose of development is being redefined in both social and environmental terms. Despite pushback from conservative forces, change is accelerating in many sectors to drive this transformation in ways that bring about social, environmental and economic justice at a local, national, regional and global level. New knowledge and strong cross-regional networks capable of foregrounding different realities, needs and agendas will be essential. In fact, the power of knowledge matters today in ways that humanity has probably never experienced before, placing an emphasis on the roles of research, academics and universities. In this collection, an international, diverse collection of scholars from the Southern African and Nordic regions
