crucial questions question 1 what has gone wrong in modern societies so that they cause more sickness and are 400 times more deadly than all the wars put together where do we find the systemic causes question 2 what has gone wrong so that scandalous forms of work like forced labor or bullshit jobs occur to the extent that they do what are the systemic causes where are the deeper roots to be found question 3

only 10 percent of the worlds population own almost as much as the remaining 90 percent of the population all together the accompanying imbalance of power has grave effects on democracy these numbers mean a social disaster for millions of humans which systemic circumstances are at the core of such unequal distribution do we want to accept this or can we change it and if we can change it how question 4 what systemic error leads to the fact that democracy does not prevent war but rather more or less continues uninterrupted to wage wars in other words how can democracy be developed so that it becomes an instrument of peace question 5 why have we not been able to keep the oceans clean why do we keep depleting and even poisoning the soil and underground water what is wrong with our political economic and cultural system so that destruction comes first and then the repair which compared to prevention comes at a very dear price question 6 where are the systemic causes for the erosion of principles of law and for the apathetic acceptance of this development in the broad population crucial radical questions arise these are questions about how the three organic systems function and what their conditions for living are so that they can do what they are meant to do with as little disruption as possible these are the questions what living conditions does spiritual cultural life need to thrive for example research education and schooling and what restricts spiritual cultural life what living conditions does economic life need to thrive and what restricts it what living conditions does legal life need to thrive and what restricts it and finally there is the deciding question of how the organic systems work together how do the three areas cooperate which form of cooperation is fruitful and which is contra productive and destructive you will find the answers in the exiting book this book provides a new paradigm of economics that is called qualitative economics the authors take an approach to economics that is entirely different from the established neo classical economics paradigm arguing that the basis of neo classical economic theory with its focus on perfect information in a balanced equilibrium system of supply and demand is fundamentally flawed the authors propose an inclusive philosophical and scientific perspective to explain economic structures and activities and how best to understand the dynamics of economics furthermore the authors argue that a qualitative approach allows for greater understanding of not only the actors actions and situations in economics but also defines the context in which the more traditional quantitative and statistical methods are applied the book includes case studies to further illustrate the applications of qualitative economics challenging orthodox paradigms and schools of economic thought the book proposes a new way of looking at economics and as such will be of use to researchers and students of economics business social sciences and the sciences as well as think tanks and advocacy groups interested in heterodox economics
