What is the place of human free will in our lives if all our actions are the result of some other cause? Does our processing of unconscious beliefs or desires make us less free? Is our free will necessarily restricted if we do not choose our own beliefs? The debate between free will and its opposing doctrine, determinism, is one of the key issues in philosophy. Free Will: An Historical and Philosophical Introduction provides a comprehensive introduction to this highly important question and examines the contributions made by sixteen of the most outstanding thinkers from the time of early Greece to the twentieth century: Homer, Sophocles, Plato, Aristotle, St. Augustine, St. Thomas Aquinas, Descartes, Spinoza, Hume, Kant, Schopenhauer, Freud, Sartre, Weil, Wittgenstein, Moore, Ilham, Dilman. It brings together all the dimensions of the problem of free will with examples from literature, ethics, and psychoanalysis, drawing out valuable insights from both sides of the free will/determinism divide. It provides an accessible and highly readable introduction to this perennial problem.

This is a topically organized introduction to the traditional problems of philosophy. It aims to introduce readers to traditional philosophical problems and to expose readers to philosophical argumentation in such a way that they will feel confident in handling abstract concepts.
