this accessible introduction explores the historical dimensions and theoretical concepts associated with colonial and post colonial studies ania loomba examines the key features of the ideologies and history of colonialism the relationship of colonial discourse to literature challenges to colonialism and recent developments in post colonial theories and histories in the writings of contemporary theorists including edward said abdul janmohamed homi bhabha and gayatri spivak loomba also looks at how sexuality is insinuated in the texts of colonialism and how contemporary feminist ideas and concepts intersect with those of post colonialist thought until the lives and issues of african women arrived on the agenda of postcolonial writers african women who continued their lives under double colonization by patriarchy and dominant powers did not have much standing in literary works and in the world of literature postcolonial african women have often been represented as weak subaltern and speechless by western writers and have even been underrepresented by some postcolonial writers this book shows how the african woman who is usually represented in clichéd and stereotyped forms is depicted a versatile way in ngugi and adichie s novels working within a global frame the routledge companion to postcolonial and decolonial literature considers postcolonial and decolonial literary works across multiple genres languages and both regional and transnational networks the companion extends beyond the entrenched hegemony of the postcolonial or anglophone novel to explore other literary formations and vernacular exchanges it foregrounds questions of language and circulation by emphasizing translation vernacularity and world literature this text expands the linguistic regional and critical foci of the emergent field of decolonial studies pushing against the normative currents of postcolonial literary studies and offers a critical consideration of both the volume prioritizes new literatures and critical theories of diasporas borderlands detentions and forced migrations in the face of environmental catastrophe and political authoritarianism reframing postcolonial decolonial literary studies through an emphasis on multilingual literatures this will be a crucial resource for undergraduate and graduate students of postcolonial and decolonial studies this book investigates the postcolonial aspects of the translations of ahlam mostaghanemi s memory in the flesh and tayeb saleh s season of migration to the north it argues that both novels provide an image of the shift of persona in the post colonial arab world and how individuals have been affected with that change it also sheds light on that sense of homesickness felt by individuals when they are in a host country and how they dealt with that situation the themes of identity romance and feminism are highlighted in order to help readers gain a clear view of the experiences of the characters this book explores the formations and configurations of british colonial discourse on india through a reading of prose narratives of the 1600 1920 period arguing that colonial discourse often relied on aesthetic devices in order to describe and assert a degree of narrative control over indian landscape pramod nayar demonstrates how aesthetics furnished a vocabulary and representational modes for the british to construct particular images of india looking specifically at the aesthetic modes of the marvellous the monstrous the sublime the picturesque and the luxuriant nayar marks the shift in the rhetoric from the exploration narratives from the age of mercantile exploration to that of the shikar memoirs of the late nineteenth and early twentieth century s extreme exotic english writing and india provides an important new study of colonial aesthetics even as it extends current scholarship on the modes of early british representations of new lands and cultures seminar paper from the year 2006 in the subject english language and literature studies literature grade 1 university of marburg institut für anglistik und amerikanistik course postmodern and/or postcolonial contemporary writing from britain and the commonwealth language english abstract zadie smith's novel white teeth deals with families and generations from diverse ethnic backgrounds and in the four main chapters archie 1974 1945 samad 1984 1857 irie 1990 1907 and magid millat and marcus 1992 1999 she approaches them from several angles as a result there has been a discussion on who is to be treated as the central character in this novel one possible answer to this is offered by nina shen rastogi the main character in white teeth isn't a character in any traditional sense it is the city of London itself. Smith's goal is less to paint a portrait of any particular character than it is to create a large scale character sketch of a particular place and a particular time. White Teeth is about the foibles of a community of near strangers and almost friends as it collectively stumbles towards an uncertain future. The paper will investigate this approach by dealing with London as it is depicted in this postcolonial novel. After a working definition on the diversely discussed notion of postcolonialism in 1 there will be a closer look on London both as a physical location in 2 a and a literary region in 2 b. The main issues will be the history of immigration, facts about multiculturalism today and a brief look on how the colonial legacy has been depicted in postcolonial literature in London. A conclusion in 3 will summarize the results and present some main questions for the analysis of White Teeth. Here the paper will take a look on the role of the characters interacting with each other and on how they compromise between their cultural legacy and London's society. In 1 this will be the major part of the analysis. In two sho this work charts the author's intellectual journey during the last ten years as an academic teaching postcolonial literature in a Canadian university. The essays critique the dominant models of postcolonial theory that emerge from metropolitan centres and ignore the specifics of time and place. Arun Mukherjee tests these theories by applying them to her classroom experience of teaching authors such as Mulk Raj Anand, Dionne Brand, Anita Desai, Claire Harris, Bessie Head, Sky Lee and many others.

poses two questions: is there a role for the literary imagination in postcolonial studies and where may one locate South Africa or more generally South African perspectives in a field delineated primarily by northern institutional purposes and practices?
