this monograph analyses the historical evolution of the laws of occupation as a special branch of international humanitarian law ihl focusing on the extent to which this body of law has been transformed by its interaction with the development of international human rights law it argues that a large part of the laws of occupation has proved to be malleable while being able to accommodate changing demands of civilians and any other persons affected by occupation in modern context its examinations have drawn much on archival research into the drafting documents of the instruments of ihl including the aborted brussels declaration 1874 the 1899 1907 hague regulations the 1949 geneva conventions and the 1977 additional protocol i after assessing the complementary relationship between international human rights law and the laws of occupation the book examines how to provide a coherent explanation for an emerging framework on the rights of individual persons affected by occupation it engages in a theoretical appraisal of the role of customary ihl and the martens clause in building up such a normative framework essential reading for best interests assessor students and practitioners this fully updated handbook gives practical advice on the legal aspects values and practice elements of the role international law has long differentiated between international and non international armed conflicts traditionally regulating the former far more comprehensively than the latter this is particularly stark in the case of detention where the law of non international armed conflict contains no rules on who may be detained what processes must be provided to review their detention and when they must be released given that non international armed conflicts are now the most common form of conflict this is especially worrying and the consequences of this have been seen in the detention practices of states such as the us and uk in iraq and afghanistan this book provides a comprehensive examination of the procedural rules that apply to detention in non international armed conflict with the focus on preventive security detention or internment all relevant areas of international law most notably international humanitarian law and international human rights law are analysed in detail and the interaction between them explored the book gives an original account of the relationship between the relevant rules of ihl and ihrl which is firmly grounded in general international law scholarship treating the issue as a matter of treaty interpretation with that in mind and with reference to state practice in specific non international armed conflicts including those in sri lanka colombia nepal afghanistan and iraq it is demonstrated that the customary and treaty obligations of states under human rights law continue absent derogation to apply to detention in non international armed conflicts the practical operation of those rules is then explored in detail the volume ends with a set of concrete proposals for developing the law in this area in a manner that builds upon rather than replaces the existing obligations of states and non state armed groups this comprehensive guide updated for the 2003 model year provides buyers with all the information they need to buy any new vehicle
