a canadian woman shares her story of traveling to south africa to teach boer children in concentration camps following the south african war as the south african war reached its grueling end in 1902 colonial interests at the highest levels of the british empire hand picked teachers from across the commonwealth to teach the thousands of boer children living in concentration camps highly educated hard working and often opinionated e maud graham joined the canadian contingent of forty teachers her eyewitness account reveals the complexity of relations and tensions at a controversial period in the histories of both britain and south africa graham presents a lively historical travel memoir and the editors have provided rich political and historical context to her narrative in the introduction and generous annotations this is a rare primary source for experts in colonial studies women s studies and canadian south african and british imperial history readers with an interest in the south african war will be intrigued by graham s observations on south african society at the end of the victorian era a fascinating perspective on the country graham s account will help others understand how the british and english speaking canadians in south africa perceived boers and native southern africans at the turn of the twentieth century and her descriptions reveal details about everyday life in south africa at an important moment of transition graham s book represents the perspective of a well embedded outsider reporting to far removed readers rather than that of a female teacher involved in international or imperial education benjamin bryce historical studies in education recommended for those who wish to learn more about south african history and early race relations or tensions graham s opinionated writing will amuse and interest those researching women s studies amy l crofford african studies quarterly volume 16

what will it take to turn south africa around in this insightful and provocative book frans raubenbach proposes a complete overhaul of policy thinking and provides fresh arguments that effectively address south africa s unemployment race problems and lack of education raubenbach examines the fundamental problem of rent seeking to which he proposes two antidotes the free market and decentralisation of government along the way he tackles holy cows such as affirmative action trade unions labour law and welfare payments he also addresses contentious topics such as racism white privilege political correctness state funding of higher education and mounting evidence that trade unions substantially suppress employment growth written by a labour lawyer with a proven track record in a range of policy issues south africa can work speaks effectively to a cross section of readers of all disciplines and brings sorely needed good news as the south african economy emerges from the downturn induced by covid 19 policy makers are concerned with recovery reconstruction and transformation this paper focuses on the recovery from the severely depressed levels of economic activity that occurred in april 2020 however before considering the period after the economic trough of april 2020 a mention of economic conditions prior to the pandemic is worthwhile in brief economic performance was terrible by almost any metric furthermore economic performance had been poor since 2008 with evidence pointing to ongoing deterioration culminating in the fourth quarter of 2019 when per capita gdp contracted unemployment ticked upwards to its highest level since 1994 productivity declined and inequality worsened the striking difficulties of the south african economy in avoiding absorbing shocks whether internally generated such as shocks to electricity supply or externally generated such as changes in terms of trade or investor sentiment in relation to emerging markets have been an integral part of this disappointing economic performance over time in short the situation prevailing prior to the onset of the covid 19 pandemic was one of economic weakness beginning from this position of weakness the economic shock related to covid 19 was enormous likely the largest single economic shock in the history of south africa according to official statistics gdp in the second quarter of 2020 was approximately 17 below the level registered in the second quarter of 2019 in assessing this shock it is important to recall that gdp is a flow concept one can in principle consider the volume of flow over any arbitrary period a day a week a month a quarter a semester a year and so forth the lockdown associated with covid 19 precipitated an extraordinarily rapid decline in economic activity indeed the available analytics and data point to a trough in economic activity or flow value of gdp at less than 70 of the level that would have pertained in the absence of the pandemic or a greater than 30 decline in the flow rate of gdp arndt et al 2020 if we accept a 17 reduction as the average flow rate of gdp over the quarter and we accept that the economic shock related to covid 19 was unprecedentedly rapid and drove a decline in the flow value of gdp of much more than 17 at the trough which probably occurred sometime in late april or early may then we must also accept a rapid recovery in economic activity in may and june in order to achieve an average decline of 17 over the quarter furthermore this relatively rapid recovery continued gdp in the third quarter of 2020 was only about 6 below the levels recorded for the third quarter of 2019 with the corresponding figure for the fourth quarter at about 4 other figures including recent ones broadly support this basic story for example retail sales in february 2021 were up 2 4 year on year with the previous two months january and december having registered only a slight decline year on year correspondingly manufacturing production and sales were down by 2 1 in february 2021 year on year a few broad observations emerge from this history and the available data first the south african economy has exhibited more resilience to the covid 19 shock than performance up to december 2019 might have led one to expect in mexico for example the distance between fourth quarter gdp in 2020 and that in 2019 was greater than for the same comparison in south africa at the same time mexico registered close to twice as many deaths related to covid 19 per million population as south africa second multiplier effects are important as discussed in arndt et al 2020 multiplier effects accounted for the bulk of the initial economic contraction however they also operate positively buoying the recovery experienced to date and bringing economic activity back towards the levels of 2019 third while having gdp about 4 down year on year is much better than the 17 decline observed in the second quarter 4 down is still a deep recession by ordinary standards while some sectors are producing at close to levels observed in the fourth quarter of 2019 others are more strongly affected the incidence of these depressed levels of economic activity remains likely to be tilted toward lower income households which are more vulnerable to begin with overall there remains substantial slack in the economy multiplier effects still apply and many households remain deeply vulnerable to severe economic hardship technology is key to the development of nations yet is not freely or easily accessible this book aims to contribute to the debate about empowering africa to play a more meaningful role in the global innovation system it emphasizes the important role of technology transfer in assisting least developed countries ldcs in africa to expand their technological capabilities the book surveys ip and innovation policies in africa's past and present providing theoretical policy and legal frameworks as well as specific measures that will help african ldcs it proposes solutions to overcome challenges currently posed by inefficiencies in the flow of technologies to ldcs and by the fragmentation of the international legal framework that regulates technology transfer notably the book proposes maximal implementation of the trips agreement provisions related to technology transfer and recommends the adoption of a uniform international legal instrument under the framework of the wto to be designated as the agreement on trade related issues of technology transfer and innovation tritti the book advocates for proactivity from african ldcs and urges them to cultivate environments that attract and enable technology transfer into their respective states this will facilitate technological learning accelerate absorption and adaptation fit to an african context and will catapult african ldcs down the road of innovation this book provides the first full account of the 20 year story of universal access and service in south africa's ict sector from 1994 the country's first democratic government set out to redress the deep digital divide afflicting the overwhelming majority of its citizens already poor and disenfranchised but likewise marginalised in access to telephone infrastructure and services by this time an incipient global policy regime was driving reforms in the telecomms sector and also developing good practice models for universal service policy diffusion thus led south africa to adopt adapt and implement a slew of these interventions in particular roll out obligations were imposed on licensees and a universal service fund was established but an agency with a universal service mandate was also created and licences in under serviced areas were awarded the book goes on to identify and analyse the policy success and failure of each of these interventions and suggests some lessons to be learned women s activism in south africa provides the most comprehensive collection of women s experiences within civil society since the 1994 transition this book captures south african women s stories of collective activism and social change at a crucial point for the future of democracy in the country if not the continent pulling together the voices of activists and scholars south africa s path to democracy and the assurance of gender rights emerge as a complex journey of both successes and challenges the collection elucidates a new form of pragmatic feminism building upon the elasticity between the state and civil society what the cases demonstrate is that while the state itself may not be a panacea it still represents a key source of power and the primary locus of vital resources including the rights of citizenship access to basic needs and the promise of protection from gender based violence all central to women s particular needs in south africa
