thesis m a from the year 2007 in the subject american studies literature grade 2 oo university of göttingen language english abstract let them be sea captains if you will margaret fuller stated in her main work woman in the nineteenth century woman 346 although even nowadays there may be only few female sea captains the quoted statement would hardly provoke anyone at least not someone in our contemporary western culture however when regarded in its historical context two questions arise firstly what underlying gender concept encouraged fuller to make such a statement in a time of excessive gender polarization bomarito vol2 1 a time in which the ideal of domesticity and republican motherhood freedman 25 determined the role of woman and secondly how did antebellum american society react to such statements the first question will be the main issue of part iii the main part of my work i will begin with fuller s general gender concept that involves ideas of androgynity and the degendering davis 182 of language next the major influences on her concept namely those of transcendentalism with special consideration of emerson goethe fourier and swedenborg will be dealt with lastly i will consider how fuller applied her concept to the specific fields outlined in chapter ii that is marriage education and economy i will concentrate on her main work woman in the nineteenth century because fuller describes her gender concept there in most detail whereas her other works such as summer on the lakes do not contribute much additional information that is of special significance for the understanding of her gender concept this is especially true in the case of her memoirs which was heavily edited and censored by emerson and others it rather distorted fuller s reputation as urbanski states 5 therefore i will only occasionally refer to them whenever they provide further information that is relevant to my topic regarding t transnational migration to israel in global comparative context explores both how and why the recent influx of approximately 200 000 non jewish migrants from dozens of countries across the globe has led state officials to declare in definitive terms that israel is not an immigration country despite its unwavering commitment to welcoming unlimited numbers of homeward bound jewish immigrants as this innovative volume illustrates the arrival of these economically motivated migrants about half of whom are defined by the state as legal and half as illegal has dramatically transformed the local labor economy of israel palestine moreover the presence of labor migrants along with smaller groups of asylum seekers and victims of trafficking in women has also generated a wide array of complicated legal policy related cultural and ideological questions and dilemmas for the israeli state local municipalities and civil society taking both the palestinian israeli conflict and israel s newfound embeddedness in globalizing labor markets as backdrop this multidisciplinary collection investigates the causes as well as the consequences of these new waves of transnational migration to israel both in comparison to other world regions and in terms of three interrelated levels of analysis first the micro level of migrants everyday experience second the meso level of state and institutional policies and practices and finally the macro level of global political economic trends and processes bringing together a dynamic array of pioneering senior researchers along with more junior scholars the volume is distinctive not only in its incisive comparisons between israel and other destination countries but also in its multifaceted analysis of how the israeli migration regime has shaped constrained and on occasion been challenged by the arrival of these largely unanticipated migrants among the themes analyzed are the relationship between transnational migration processes and the simmering israeli
