co management boards established under comprehensive land claims agreements with indigenous peoples have become key players in land use planning wildlife management and environmental regulation across Canada's north this book provides a detailed account of the operation and effectiveness of these new forms of federalism in order to address a central question: have co-management boards been successful in ensuring substantial indigenous involvement in policies affecting the land and wildlife in their traditional territories? Graham White tackles this question drawing on decades of research and writing about the politics of northern Canada. He begins with an overview of the boards, examining their legal foundations, structure and membership, decision making processes and independence from government. He then presents case studies of several important boards while White identifies constraints on the role northern indigenous peoples play in board processes. He finds that overall they exercise extensive decision making influence. These findings are provocative and offer valuable insights into our understanding of the importance of land claims boards and the role they play in the evolution of treaty federalism in Canada.

Images of Canadianess offers backgrounds and explanations for a series of relevant if relatively new features of Canada from political, cultural and economic angles.

A policy relevant study of when and how ceasefires lead to peace. Almost all intrastate conflicts involve ceasefire agreements, yet little is known about which factors make a ceasefire effective in stopping violence and ultimately ending intrastate conflict. Ceasefires explores the complex relationship between the ceasefire and political negotiation processes and examines how they can either reinforce or impede each other. Case studies from the joint perspectives of practitioners and scholars cover conflicts in Bosnia, Burundi, Colombia, Darfur, El Salvador, Myanmar, the Philippines, Sudan, North, South and Syria. This in-depth analysis of ceasefires offers a unique framework for future mediators and negotiators as well as scholars of the intrastate peace process to enable them to identify a spectrum of potentially acceptable ceasefire agreements and sequencing approaches.

The report contains Neil Crank's judgement on the status of the non-renewable resource regulatory systems in northern Canada with a focus on the Northwest Territories. Including recommendations that, if implemented, will provide for improved regulatory systems. There are also twenty-two recommendations which will bring about improvements that will complement the overall northern regulatory improvement initiative. Includes text from document.
