this elementary history of the roman empire is intended for supplementary reading or as a first history text book for young pupils it is therefore made up principally of stories about persons for while history proper is largely beyond the comprehension of children they are able at an early age to understand and enjoy anecdotes of people especially of those in the childhood of civilization at the same time these stories will give a clear idea of the most important events that have taken place in the ancient world and it is hoped will arouse a desire to read further they also aim to enforce the lessons of perseverance courage patriotism and virtue that are taught by the noble lives described a knowledge of ancient history however superficial is of very great value and the classic legends are almost equally worth knowing because of the prominent part they play in the world s literature these tales make a deep impression on the minds of children and the history thus learned almost in play will cling to the memory far more tenaciously than any lessons subsequently conned

this book explores the universal human existential trauma of original loss a trauma the author describes as arising from our primal human evolutionary loss of experiencing ourselves as innately belonging to and instinctively at home within the larger natural world in this trauma arose our existential awareness of impermanence and mortality along with the need to mourn that loss in order to create a sense of belonging and identity the book describes how the invention of art and group ritual became the collective ways we mourn our shared existential loss it describes as well how it is the art within the psychoanalytic practice that enables both patient and analyst to grieve their individual versions of our shared original loss drawing on the work of winnicott loewald and ogden as well as art theory and religion this book offers a new perspective on the intersection of metaphorical artistic thinking and psychoanalysis this book will appeal to psychoanalysts psychotherapists and scholars of poetic visual and musical metaphor creativity evolution and history of art
