40 or 50 families control the economies of Hong Kong, Singapore, Thailand, the Philippines, and Indonesia. Their interests range from banking to property, from shipping to sugar, from vice to gambling. 13 of the 50 richest families in the world are in South East Asia, yet they are largely unknown outside confined business circles. Often this is because they control the press and television as well as everything else. How do they do it? What are their secrets? And is it good news or bad for the places where they operate? Joe Studwell explosively lifts the lid on a world of staggering secrecy and shows that the little most people know is almost entirely wrong.

In 1960 the GDP per capita of Southeast Asian countries was nearly half of that of Africa. By 1986 the gap had closed and today the trend is reversed: with more than half of the world's poorest now living in Sub-Saharan Africa. Why has Asia developed while Africa lagged? The Asian Aspiration chronicles the stories of explosive growth and changing fortunes the leaders events and policy choices that lifted a billion people out of abject poverty within a single generation the largest such shift in human history the relevance of asia s example comes as africa is facing a population boom which can either lead to crisis or prosperity and as asia is again transforming this time out of low cost manufacturing into hi tech leaving a void that is africa s for the taking far from the optimistic determinism of africa rising this book calls for unprecedented pragmatism in the pursuit of african success this book examines the emergence of different forms of capitalism in central eastern states in europe and mekong states within the association of southeast asian nations asean all of them but thailand have historically disappeared from the regional maps for long periods of time due to colonial or imperial rule most of them were previously members of a soviet type economy and they all joined asean or the european union in the 1990s or in the 2000s these states are characterized by a strong urge toward feelings of national sovereignty due to their experiences with colonialism and imperialism but due to the regional economic pressures and the globalization dynamic these states cannot articulate protectionist policies they are forced to open their economies in order to attract foreign direct investments this results in less regulated and more political forms of capitalism than in some more developed capitalist countries this book analyzes forms of capitalism as the arising from a combination of three conditions the legacy of the foreign occupations the national construction process of the sovereign state and lastly the dynamics of regional integration these states claims to national sovereignty and the manner in which they developed suggests a causative link between the forms of political domination that have presided over these transformations and the forms of capitalism that have resulted
