this book is an account of the emergence and key events related to the origin and expansion of pakistani taliban since 2001 with a focus on the role of religion in their actions policies and worldviews the author brings to light rare insight into the ideological basis of pakistani taliban drawing upon first hand research comprising participant observation interviews content analysis of organizational literature and talibani communications such as recruitment videos recorded speeches leaflets and pamphlets jihadi anthems and press releases to the local media the book demonstrates how religion simultaneously appears as an object to be defended as a threat as the purpose of violence as the source of rules and limitations on violent action and as the source of motivational imagery and myths going into an analysis of just what role religion plays in violent activities of this group and how does it do so the author shows that talibani narratives are both secular and religious at the same time contradicting a clear cut divide between religious and secular motivations for violence the book advocates against extreme positions that accord religion either a primary or a negligent position in explaining the raison d'être of pakistani taliban it makes a plea for more informed and empathetic approach instead of the purely militaristic stance towards extremism which has only helped it grow in the past
