a second year doctoral student from a midwestern family frye is twenty three when she marries a german professor ten years her senior previously sheltered frye seeks new vistas but instead finds herself confined by the demands of her life wife to a volatile and domineering husband mother of two young daughters and aspiring academic with her dissertation completed she finally realizes that the only way to wrest her identity and freedom from her husband's grip is by leaving him she boards a bus with her two young children to embark on a new life in Biting the Moon frye powerfully recounts her struggle for independence and a successful career while remaining devoted to her daughters despite the many promises of the women's movement liberation from domestic work and the ability to influence social policy she wrestles with the complex often ambivalent relationship between feminism and motherhood interwoven with literary references from Charlotte Brontë to Virginia Woolf to Tillie Olsen Biting the Moon invites the reader along on frye's quest for self expression and a life beyond the shadows of others this deeply felt courageous portrait of a woman's life will be intimately familiar to an older generation of mothers and an inspiration to a younger generation if you'd asked me at 10 what my plans were for the next few years fighting an eating disorder would not have made the list Gen's early teenage years were the hardest of her life struggling with anorexia and poor mental health she spent time in and out of hospitals and clinics which also had a huge impact on her family but with treatment and support Gen was able to turn her life around changing her behaviours and attitude toward food and her body as well as sharing the insights from Gen's own lived experience and challenging stereotypes around eating disorders Bite Back includes practical tips and activities from Gen and her team that helped with recovery answers to frequently asked questions about the cause and treatment of eating disorders advice on how you can support a loved one going through it i hope my story helps you feel seen that it inspires you and is a reminder that there is a beautiful life waiting for you keep fighting in dismantling the patriarchy bit by bit Judith K Brodsky makes a ground breaking intellectual leap by connecting feminist art theory with the rise of digital art technology has commonly been considered the domain of white men but unrecognized until this book female artists including women artists of color have been innovators in the digital art arena as early as the late 1960s when computers first became available outside of government and university laboratories brodsky an important figure in the feminist art world looks at various forms of visual art that are quickly becoming the dominant art of the 21st century examining the work of artists in such media as video from pioneers joan jonas and adrian piper to hannah black today websites and social networking from vera frenkel to ann hirsch virtual and augmented reality art jenny holzer to hyphen lab and art using artificial intelligence she also documents the work of female identifying queer transgender and black and brown artists including legacy russell and micha cárdenas who are not only innovators in digital art but also transforming technology itself under the impact of feminist theory in this radical study brodsky argues that their work frees technology from its patriarchal context illustrating the crucial need to transform all areas of our culture in order to achieve the goals of metoo black lives matter blm and black and minority ethnic bame representation to empower female identifying and black and brown people and to document their contributions to human history guerrillas and combative mothers is a narrative of women participating in the armed struggle against apartheid from 1961 to 1994 and their lives in a democratic south africa focusing on their agency commitment beliefs and actions it describes how women got politicised and the decisions and circumstances that led them to join the armed struggle in south africa and exile siphokazi magadla discusses the forms of military training they received the combat activities and their transformation as women and soldiers magadla also talks about their participation in the south african national defence force led demobilisation process and their contributions to the democratic transformation of the sandf by illuminating the different eras and arenas of their participation this book shows the broadness of the armed struggle against apartheid as a historical truth and as a matter of gender equality and justice for an inclusive and more democratic future considering that one of the core tasks of academia is to provide social critique and reflection universities have an undeniable role to formulate the contours of a more inclusive academia in contrast to visible and normalised structures of exclusion translating such ambitions into transformative practices seems to be easier said than done academics need mutual inspiration and exchange of thoughts and practices to reflect on their actions and their own knowledge productions the authors in this book mirror the challenges and achievements of academics and practitioners in three national contexts which could serve as a foundation for academia to move towards dismantling elitist and privileged based assumptions and formulating new forms of knowledge production and institutional policies inside and outside academia the book aims to help create a more inclusive society in which academics students and practitioners can engage learn and transform structures of inequality exclusion and disconnection where it seems to have the biggest impact when apartheid ended the structure and the character of south african women's rights organizations changed they were part of the liberation movement but after the political changes in 1994 they asked for women's rights in the new constitution they work together with the anc government because rape and domestic violence still exist and there is no equality between men and women this study analyses what women's organizations in south africa can do and what the background of all these different forms of violence is
