sensing and signaling pathways the term oxidative stress is an expression that is losing its use in modern redox biology it is now an accepted fact that ros cannot be described as an apparent enemy or friend its optimum level modulates signal transduction and stress responses by acting as a second messenger for redox sensitive cascades redox dependent second messengers are generated in subcellular locations according to specific rules and regulations their appearance depends on cellular needs in response to external and internal stimuli variations a good understanding of the wound healing cascades which deteriorate especially in advancing ages is critical in developing the most appropriate approach to understand the redox signaling mechanisms and healing cascades in wound healing to pioneer new pharmacoeactive drugs that can be developed based on these mechanisms to reveal the deteriorating dynamics in the elderly patient group and to propose new treatment methods suitable for the advanced age group the only source where all intracellular and intercellular redox homeostasis cascades and mechanisms of wound healing in elderly people deals with wounds in different types and locations diabetic ischemic post operational in subcellular and macro dimensions examine their relationship with aging and aim to target deteriorating cascades it will help adjust redox based treatment regimens befitting modern medicine
