in the six years since the appearance of the first edition of stephen smith s book labour economics has become a more firmly entrenched subject on the curriculum previously regarded as a subsection within industrial economics there are now very few universities that do not devote a course to it in its own right the focus of topics covered withi

as the indian economy integrates into global circuits of production exchange and accumulation the burdens of adjustment are shared unequally by different sectors classes and regions this study unravels the livelihood strategies and living conditions of labour in the tea gardens of assam the tea sector has been undergoing a crisis since the 1990s with stagnant production decline in exports and closures of many tea gardens leading to large scale retrenchments in the labour force based on a detailed analysis of secondary data and primary field research the study examines the extent types and implications of inter generational occupational mobility or immobility among tea garden labourers in assam in the process it reflects on how even a sector that had brought capital and labour from outside and contributed significantly to the country s export earnings failed to create dynamic growth linkages within the local economy the experience of the labour force in the assam tea sector the authors argue is important for making sense not only of the development dynamics of the region but of the contradictory ways in which forces of globalisation and neo liberal reforms have been reshaping the worlds of labourers in the margins the book will be of interest to students and scholars of labour studies development studies management studies and studies of north east india as well as to policy makers and those in the tea industry the book discusses important developments emerging around the land questions in india in the context of india s neoliberal economic development and its changing political economy it covers many issues that have been impinging the political economy in land and livelihoods in india since the 1990s examining the land question from diverse methodological standpoints most of the chapters rely on evidence generated through primary surveys in different parts of the country the book via its diversity of approaches and methodologies brings out new and hitherto unexplored and or less researched issues on the emerging land question in india the range of issues addressed in the volume encompasses the contemporary developments in the political economy of land land dispossession sezs agrarian changes urbanisation and the drive for the commodification of land across india the authors also examine role of the state in promoting the capitalist transformation in india and continuities and changes emerging in the context of land liberalisation and market friendly economic reforms tale of four indian cities presents a vivid picture of how the british political regime reorganized the structure of the indian economy to suit its own objectives while doing so the regime also affected the geographical distribution of economic activities this resulted in the decline of native cities and the increased prosperity of colonial cities to reveal how british colonial power brought about such changes in the indian subcontinents the book narrates the account of two pairs of native and colonial cities dacca and calcutta from the indian eastern coast and surat and bombay from the western coast these were major centres of manufacturing shared a common history and experienced the consequences of three different political dispensations the mughal empire the east india company and the british raj accessibly written the volume will be of great interest to students scholars and researchers of indian colonial business and economic history it will also be of interest to the general reader the business of decolonization serves to deepen our understanding of the end of the british empire too often approached as if it was a process shaped and experienced exclusively by nationalist and imperial politicians and policy makers it explores british companies experience of and involvement in developments leading to the transfer of power in ghana the former colony of the gold coast the book demonstrates that businessmen developed strategies to cope with political change reveals the extent of their involvement in nationalist politics and highlights the contrasting responses of different companies to political and constitutional developments in the colony drawing on an extensive range of company business association personal and official papers the book focuses primarily on company activity however it also investigates relations between british firms and the colonial state on the eve of ghanaian independence and examines the place of british business interests in british policy
