rewriting franco s spain marcel proust and the dissident novelists of memory proposes a new reading of some of the most culturally significant and closely studied works of spanish memory fiction from the past seventy years it examines the influence of french writer marcel proust on fiction concerning the spanish civil war and franco s dictatorship by carmen laforet juan goytisolo juan benet carmen martín gaité jorge semprún and javier marías it explores the ways in which À la recherche du temps perdu has been instrumental in these authors works galvanizing their creative impetus shaping their imaginative act and guiding their adversarial stance toward franco s regime this book illustrates how these writers use proustian themes and techniques and thereby enhances our understanding of the function of memory and fictional creation in some of the most important milestones in contemporary spanish literature rewriting franco s

Spain argues that an appreciation of Proust's pervasive influence on Spanish memory writing obliges us to reconsider the notion that Franco's regime maintained a rigid stranglehold on imported culture capturing the richness of Spanish novelists' contact with literature produced outside of Spain. It challenges the prevailing scholarly tendency to focus on the novelists' immediate sociopolitical concerns. There is more to these texts than a simple testimony of the brutality and hardship of the Civil War and life under Franco. By illuminating the subversive nature of Spanish novelists' use of a Proust-inspired practice of self-writing, rewriting Franco's Spain seeks to readjust some of the ways we view the role of novelists living during the regime and in its wake. It advocates a conception of novelists as dissidents teasing out the seditious undercurrent of their cultivation of self-writing and examining how they disputed the regime's ideas about what culture should look like. The preconception that the development of Spanish literature under Franco was stunted because Spaniards were prevented from reading works considered an affront to national Catholic sensibilities is cast aside, as is the notion that Spain was isolated from narrative developments elsewhere. Rewriting Franco's Spain ultimately reveals the centrality of Proust's monumental novel in the evolution of contemporary Spanish literature.

Reconstructs through testimonial literature the repression of women during the Franco years and recovers the writings of some of the forgotten post-war women novelists. The passing of Spain's Law of Historical Memory (2007) marked the official recognition of the need to confront a violent and painful past. Article 2 makes reference to specific groups who experienced discrimination, including religious and ethnic communities. No reference is made to the gender repression endured by women enforced by a patriarchal regime through its legislation and policies with the active support of the Church. The women's section of the Falange revised narratives of the period that have emerged in recent decades have raised issues in relation to the reliability and selectivity of memory and its ongoing mediation by intervening events. While documentary sources of the period are prejudicial, contemporaneous post-war testimonial novels provide an invaluable resource in reconstructing the past. Particularly the novels of women writers. This book draws on their narrative to reconstruct the female experience of the post-war years and in particular on the writings of novelists whose work has undeservedly been disregarded. Neither the experience of women under Franco nor the narrative of women writers of the period should be forgotten. Patricia O. Byrne, Lectures in Hispanic Studies and Comparative Literature at Dublin City University.

The career of Spain's celebrated author Carmen Martín Gaité spanned the Spanish Civil War, Franco's dictatorship, and the nation's transition to democracy. She wrote fiction, poetry, drama, screenplays for television and film, and books of literary and cultural analysis. The only person to win Spain's national prize for literature, Premio Nacional de las Letras, twice, Martín Gaité explored and blended a range of genres from social realism to the fantastic as she took up issues of gender, class, economics, and aesthetics in a time of political upheaval. Part 1 of this volume provides resources for instructors and a literary historical chronology. The essays in Part 2 approach and consider martín gaité's best known novel The Back Room (el cuarto de atrás) and other works from various perspectives: narratological, feminist, sociocultural, stylistic. In an appendix, the volume editor, who was a friend of the author, provides a new translation of martín gaité's only autobiographical sketch alongside the original Spanish.

This original collection of essays explores the work and life choices of Spanish women who, through their writings and social activism, addressed social justice, religious dogmatism, the educational system, gender inequality, and tensions in female subjectivity. It brings together writers who are not commonly associated with each other but whose voices overlap, allowing us to foreground their unconventionality, their relationships to each other, and their relation to modernity. The objective of this volume is to explore how the idea of queerness played an important role in the personal lives and social activism of these writers, as well as in the unconventional and nonconformist characters they created in their work. Together, the essays demonstrate that the concept of queer women is useful for investigating the evolution of women's writing and sexual identity during the period of Spain's fitful transition to modernity in the nineteenth century. The concept of queerness, in its many meanings, points to the idea of non-normativity and gender dissidence that encompasses how women intellectuals experienced friendship, religion, sex, sexuality, and gender. The works examined include autobiography, poetry, memoir, salon chronicles, short and long fiction, pedagogical essays, newspaper articles, theater, and letters. In addition to exploring the significant presence of queer women in nineteenth and twentieth-century Spanish literature and culture, the essays examine the reasons why the voices of Spanish women authors have been culturally silenced. One thrust in this collection explores generational transitions of Spanish writers from the romantics and their hermandad lírica (lyrical sisterhood) through to las sinsombrero (women without hats) and finally current Spanish writers linked to the LGBTQ community.

The application of pragmalinguistic methods of analysis to literature is often difficult due to the special and unique way language is used in a written literary work. Based on the assumption that literature is an act of communication, Isolda J. Jordan applies communication models such as Bühler's, Jakobson's, and Ducrot's, and theories of relevance, information, and dialogue structure and foregrounding to direct quotations taken from Hispanic fiction. Jordan shows how direct speech reporting can facilitate the interpretation of fiction by creating context-enhancing relevance and by foregrounding information and thus speaking directly to the reader.

In 1976 Adrienne Rich wrote in Woman Born "motherhood as experience and institution that the cathexis between mother and daughter, essential, distorted, misused, is the great unwritten story in the quarter century since Rich wrote those words." The topic of mothers and daughters has emerged as a salient issue in feminist scholarship. Using women's writing, film, feminist theory and personal experience, contributors to Mothers and Daughters explore how the mother-daughter relationship is represented and experienced as a site of empowerment. This volume will offer readers an important and welcome chapter in the story of the complex relationship that is a part of nearly every woman's life.

With an eye to the rather insular, particular development and definition of feminism in Spain, the author recognizes that the twentieth century has been a period of great change for peninsular women. Authors in her study of the creative compromises wrought by severe oppression followed by relative liberation all within the context of Spain's specific religious and regional influences illustrate the unique positioning of these women writers as shown through their female characters. While this is a reflection of the current scholarship in women's studies examining the feminist resonance of the construction of female identity through texts written by women about women, it is one that is in its first stages of development in Spanish criticism and has been primarily
