world war ii and since guiding policy and debate his trenchant new book distills this lifetime of experience in the public and private sectors it is a scathing critique of matters as they stand today sounding the alarm about the increasing gap between reality and conventional wisdom a phrase he coined galbraith tells along with much else how we have reached a point where the private sector has unprecedented control over the public sector we have given ourselves over to self serving belief and contrived nonsense or more simply fraud this has come at the expense of the economy effective government and the business world particularly noted is the central power of the corporation and the shift in authority from shareholders and board members to management in an intense exercise of fraud the pretense of shareholder power is still maintained even with the immediate participants in fact because of the scale and complexity of the modern corporation decisive power must go to management from management and its own inevitable self interest power extends deeply into government the so called public sector this is particularly and dangerously the case in such matters as military policy the environment and needless to say taxation nevertheless there remains the firm reference to the public sector how can fraud be innocent in his inimitable style galbraith offers the answer his taut wry and severe comment is essential reading for everyone who cares about america s future this book is especially relevant in an election year but it deeply concerns the much longer future
